We invite you to sponsor HealthHack 2016

We are seeking partnerships with health, technology and research organisations to help make HealthHack 2016 a success. We value forward thinking companies and organizations that want to support meaningful, bottom-up collaborations and practical innovation in healthcare and medical research.

What is HealthHack

HealthHack was created by the Open Knowledge Foundation in the spirit of improving access to health-related data, information and tools. It's a nonstop 48 hour event designed to bring together software developers, designers, data analysts and visualisation gurus working directly with researchers, health professionals and students to create innovative solutions to fascinating problems.

HealthHack turns four this year and will be held in five capital cities; Brisbane, Sydney, Melbourne, Perth and for the first time, Canberra. The event is fully planned and coordinated at a national level with dedicated site organisers working closely with their local communities to ensure the event is enjoyable, memorable and productive.

What is sponsorship used for HealthHack is a strictly non profit, volunteer led initiative and our it's our sponsors that allow us to provide the great community experience we're known for including providing healthy food, childcare and, of course, exciting prizes. All contributed funds or in-kind donations are used solely for the the production of the event and any remaining funds or donations will only be used to support future HealthHack events.

Please read on to learn more about how to become one of our valued sponsors.
